> Dear Mr. Martins-Júnior:

>

> We are pleased to inform you that your manuscript "Untreated dental caries: Impact on quality of life of children of low socioeconomic status" (PediaD-2011-02-1694.R1) has been accepted for publication in Pediatric Dentistry.

>

> We will be touch as we near publication, which generally occurs within 10-12 months of acceptance.

>

> Authors of studies funded by the National Institutes of Health (NIH) whose papers are accepted for publication are reminded that they must submit the study as published to NIH for inclusion in the PubMed Central digital archive. Prior to submitting to the archive, authors must request permission from the American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry, who holds the copyright to all material published in the journal. It is the author's responsibility to request the permission and to submit the published version of the article to NIH. Instructions on submitted the paper to NIH can be found at: "http://publicaccess.nih.gov/submit_process.htm".

>

> Thank you for the opportunity to publish your manuscript.

>

> Sincerely,

> Dr. N. Sue Seale
